The Children's Dental and Outreach Project was established in 1974 to provide free dental screening, emergency clinic treatment, and preventive dental education to children from poverty-level and low-income families residing in the East San Gabriel valley. These families face significant barriers to appropriate dental care and education, and the project's services continue to be unique in the area.

PALS for Health focuses on language access for health care services of Asian and Pacific Islanders and other minority groups. PALS for Health is a comprehensive medical interpretation program that includes oral interpretation and written translation services, provider and patient language rights education, interpreter proficiency assessment, interpreter training, and language rights advocacy. The program provides interpretation in over a dozen API languages and dialects in health areas such as HIV/AIDS, cancer, tuberculosis, hepatitis, perinatal care, physical rehabilitation and more.
